Please consider ALTERNATIVE D with 230,000 acre recommended wilderness. I visit this area a few times a year but more important to me is that wildlife have as large a pathway or corridor as possible to ensure their survival. Bison must have a safe travel path, the incessant slaughtering must stop as they will for all eternity try to migrate as their nature dictates. The Porcupine Buffalo Horn area provides varied elevation habitat linked to the success of the whole ecosystem. Protection of the Gallatin Range is imperative since the Madison Range is lost to large money interests that have not only developed the area for exclusive human use but has forever destroyed it for future use by generations of wildlife. Thank you for allowing my input.
