Comments:

I am against any land closers as someone who has snowmobiled in all of these areas for four decades without any confrontation from anyone.

Used to ride up buffalo horn creek for many years until the area was illegally closed without consent of congress.

There is massive amounts of land already closed to snowmobile.

Snowmobile's do not impact the lands in any negative way. In fact the wild animals love using the snowmobile tracks for travel.

When you lock us out of our public lands at the request of certain groups it is just wrong and creates certain conflict.

The amount of wilderness closed to snowmobile in Custer gallatin forrest is allready larger than what is open. The wilderness areas should be reopened to snowmobiles as this is public land.

If you continue to keep closing us out of our lands you are inviting widespread conflict as should be as the public has the right to enjoy our lands without harassment.

Do what is right

No land closers and reopen wilderness ares to snowmobile travel.
