I fully support alternative "E". We the public domain not need anymore land closers. As a avid outdoorsman, I hike, fish, snowmobile, hunter, camp, drive atvs. My family and I enjoy our public lands very much and we are seeing more and more PUBLIC land taken away for ridiculous false reasons by environmentalist.

Environmentalism claim motorized use destroys out forest when that is clearly not true if it was we'd need to close Yellowstone and glacier park down to anyone driving a car or motorcycle through there. Which brings my next point that motorized use DOES NOT effect wildlife either or again we'd have to close down Yellowstone.

The Buffalo in the hylite canyon wsa will not be bothered by motorized use. Its clear it has no effect on buffalo in the Yellowstone park. Please open that back up to motorized use.

The Crazy mountains should be left alone the way it is or less wilderness if possible. We often use the area for camping, fishing, hiking, riding atvs, Hunting and riding snowmobiles. Its a great place to take a family and enjoy the outdoors. We dont want to lose it.

The Picket pin area is a great area close to my home town and is very valuable to my community. It the closest place to enjoy the great forest. Its heavily used by the community for a place to enjoy, atvs, snowmobiling, hunting, camping, fishing, hiking and is a great place to get away from the crowds.

The Pryors is also a close place for people that love to enjoy motorized use.

The Bridgers is another great place we go to enjoy the snowmobiling and atv trails.

Buck Creek area along with lionshead area is a great place that many people use for many differnt reason in different seasons.

Please leave these areas alone. We all love our land and take care of it better than anyone. The motorized user take more care of the land and trails than any other group out there.

Please consider that there are people that are DISABLED, HANDICAP, and Seriously ILL that love to enjoy our mountains as well and are not able to hike 20 miles back to enjoy their favorite spots. This land is for everyone.

The emissions on today's motorized vehicles have been amazingly improved over the past ten years. You can also not even notice they are running they are so quite and very efficient.

Animals know no difference in a wilderness area or a motorized area, it's all the same to them they go wherever they please and do not care about boundaries.

There are more hikers in the wilderness that disrupt wildlife and are attacked than anyone else.

Motorized users pay to use what little area we have left. The forest service should look into applying a $100 annual fee for people that want to use the wilderness to help with cost of the huge forest fires that are caused by wilderness areas cause.

The motorized community has already lost too much land and almost have nowhere left to go. Some of the money that we put into the forest will also be gone and businesses will close and communities fall apart.

Please choose alternative "E"
We all take care of our forests!!!
