I'm strongly opposed to the Custer Gallatin Forest Plan Revision #50185. As someone who frequently enjoys recreating in this area (and many others like it), it's quite obvious to me that limiting options to recreate in this area will have a negative impact on our publicly owned lands. By limiting recreation opportunities, the Forest Service is forcing people to concentrate into smaller and smaller areas. This intense concentration of outdoor recreational activities is sure to create a much more negative impact on not only the environment, but also the people trying to enjoy our outdoor areas. Most of us go out into the woods because we are trying to AVOID concentrated masses of people, not be funneled into smaller and smaller areas.

Further negative impacts from implementing this plan include; Diminished capability for wildfire fighting, and diminished job opportunities for Forest Service employees. (By concentrating use into smaller areas, you're essentially radically decreasing the amount of territory that needs patrol/protection. Which means greatly diminished numbers of Forest Service employees.)
