Alternative D of the draft forest plan is by far the preferable alternative, although it could be improved, especially by including all 230,000 roadless acres of the Gallatin Range in the Recommended Wilderness areas, with no motorized or mechanized travel permitted. Nor should any other activities inconsistent with wilderness values be allowed in of the potential wilderness areas.

Also, damage to actual Wilderness would be reduced by limiting the size of groups traveling with horses or mules. Reduction of human or stock feces' contamination of waters in the Absaroka-Beartooth Wilderness also needs to be addressed.
